1 Don't bring guns to DC. Guns have no place in a peaceful protest

1 Also LEO. I worked with DC Metro in 2016 for the inauguration. They're typical big city cops. By that, I mean they're socially conservative but don't follow politics. They love arresting and hurting protesters, regardless of who it is. They are not your allies.

2 All my guns were sadly lost in a boating accident, real shame. All my gold, ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine was on that boat too.

Thanks OP; and Thanks for your service. I believe most cops are good & decent people.

In your perspective & experience; would you & your colleagues enforce patently unConstitutional orders, edicts and laws?

I know that's a broad question.... it's early; caffeine hasn't kicked in yet.... :-/

Or, send them to a place where there aren't any weapons just so they waste resources.

“ Don't be a liability for the guy next to you.

100% this

This is honestly the case for most people that open carry rifles at protest.

Yes, it is your right to do so. However without having decent weapon handling skills and safety instilled in you, you are a liability. You don't just automatically get all of that when you buy a rifle. It takes commitment and training.

If you are not at the least decently well versed on handling and how the laws work. Leave it at home.

If you get scooped up in DC being silly w a rifle you WILL go to prison. So please be intimately aware of what you are going in to. Realize things could go wrong and prepare accordingly.

Godspeed.

As long as they don't flash their badge, You can LIE to an undercover cop. You can say anything. It is legal to do so. If you suspect they are a cop, you sure as hell can lead ANYBODY on a wild goose chase.. tell this person you might have a conversation with that you have fake guns at your fake hotel. Make them think you have them to exhaust their resources.. They will still have enough riot officers to maintain order. Do not erase this post. Everything I said here is legal and does not violate this website's terms. I am saving this post and will sue if it is removed.

1 I think this site is already compromised since my last post got removed from here. IF you don't have EITHER a gun or a HOTEL say you do to throw them off. You are safe because you won't be there. They will waste their resources on a ghost.

2 I would talk to a licensed gun dealer/ store about interstate transport of weapons. I never thought about that when I went hunting. But when the truck has all camo gear and bird dogs and the state advertised come hunt... no one is going to prosecute you. I'd say in a leftard run County... they throw the book at the v KNOW THE LAW. KNOW Sidney Powelle's cell phone #.

3 As a former veteran & cop, I agree 110% with what BDragon8 is tell you! Dont talk to anyone about your FIREARMS unless you know who they are for sure! Keep your tools out of sight until they are needed! These scumbags in D.C. are scared shitless of whats coming on Jan 6th! Remember when you corner a stinking rat, they will fight to the death and do things less than honorable to protect themselves. Like he said above, there will be U.C.A. in the crowd, so be vigil and protect yourself and your tools. STAY GRAY until you need the Red White and Blue to shine forth. Good Luck Pedes! God Bless all of you & America too! See you in DC.

1 I'm less worried about U.C.As than I am Agent Provocateurs.

Be vigilant for ANTIFA wearing issued police foot attire, or even 'Frens' who seem to be there just to cause

My rights are the 2nd fucking amendment. Any state law is unconstitutional and a removal of my rights.

It's not "know your rights." We know them. It's "know which right the government will lock you up for asserting."

Thank you for your service. I know there is a lot of ANTI-cop on this site. I have talked to cops.. and I know you get it. all I care about is that due process is followed and your main goal is CRIMINALS and not a perfectly clean and struggling businesses that is trying to keep the lights on.

JAN 6th is NOT that event

3 Cheers to the OP for a healthy reminder/warning to some of our dumbass cousin's who come along and dumbass everyone else into big problems.

I once worked with police (not police) and consequently I certainly did know who the undercover cops were. Every now and then I'd be somewhere, lets say a bar and they'd be working and I'd feel silly knowing who they were but pretending I didn't even see or notice them at all.

OP is correct: plenty of undercover police do not, contrary to your dumbass cousin "totally look like cops". Yes, they are going to trick your dumbass cousin into bragging about his AR-15 upstairs.

Can I share something that often beat the cops at the game? I'm not saying you should do this but just a thing i once saw, almost hilariously defeat the police:

A Bike Club wants to travel to a special event and everyone agrees they want to take a lot of weapon s, probably other things with them to the event. ✓

The Bike Club employs their 'dumbass cousins' who among other things had a pickup with mounted rifles (and i think they were replicas or toys was the legend) another dumbass cousin was weaving through the stop and obviously pulled over where he seemed to be very drunk. Another dumbass cousin deliberately pulled over and began a 2 hour long debate/complaint/report tying up everyone, another dumbass cousin had the worlds most unsafe road-worthless vehicle, etc etc.

While they utterly clogged the whole system with 'dumbass cousins' while maybe 100s of bikers, undoubtedly with bags full of firearms and whatever contraband and dead bodies drove past the clusterfuck of cops and dumbass cousins tying them up in knots for hours.

Oh, by the way, the cops did realize they were being had. Some thought it was hilarious and others were pretty damn pissed off lol

Suggestion that might solve two things:

That Idiot Cousin of yours who probably is going to get you arrested in DC? Convinced him drive his own truck and put some "Sovereign Citizens" and "Guns for Trump" bumper stickers on his vehicle when he's not looking. Hang back a few minutes and let him get pulled over while you and your AR-15 sail on by.

--- PS: That thing where the bike club(s) were trying to get to a place? That weekend added up to something like 6 different murders and most were actually Bike Club members who offed other members for being dumbasses of some sort so we may conclude the scheme was indeed very successful for them.
